I. INTRODUCTION

Direct purchaser plaintiffs Rochester Drug Co-Operative, Inc., American Sales Company, LLC, and Meijer, Inc., and Meijer Distribution, Inc. (collectively “Plaintiffs,” “Direct Purchasers,” or “Class Representatives”) respectfully submit this memorandum of law in support of their unopposed motion for final approval of their settlement with defendants Warner Chilcott Public Limited Company, Warner Chilcott (US) LLC, Warner Chilcott Company LLC, Warner Chilcott Holdings Company III, Ltd., and Warner Chilcott Laboratories Ireland Limited (collectively “Warner Chilcott”), and Mayne Pharma Group Limited and Mayne Pharma International Pty, Ltd. (collectively “Mayne”) (collectively “Defendants”).

The proposed settlement between Defendants and Plaintiffs (the “Settlement”) in all respects is fair, reasonable, and adequate and satisfies the class action settlement standards set forth by the Third Circuit in both Girsh v. Jepsen, 521 F.2d 153 (3d Cir. 1975) and In re Prudential Ins. Co. Am. Sales Prac. Litig. Agent Actions, 148 F.3d 283 (3d Cir. 1998) (“Prudential”). The Settlement should be approved.<sup>1</sup>

After nearly two years of hard fought litigation, extensive fact discovery and motion practice, after the Court’s denial of Defendants’ motion to dismiss (ECF No. 280), extensive class certification briefing (ECF Nos. 153, 233, 384), submission of opening and responsive merits expert reports, and initial expert deposition discovery, Plaintiffs, on behalf of a class of direct purchasers of Doryx, reached a settlement agreement with Defendants.<sup>2</sup> The Settlement assures that Class members will receive substantial cash payments now while avoiding the uncertainties and delays of continued litigation and potential appeals.

<sup>1</sup> A copy of the December 24, 2013 Settlement Agreement (“Settlement Agreement”) was filed as Exhibit A to Plaintiffs’ Memorandum of Law in Support of Unopposed Motion For Class Certification For Purposes of Settlement, Preliminary Approval of Proposed Settlement, Appointment of Class Counsel, Approval of the Form and Manner of Notice to the Class and Setting the Final Settlement Schedule and Date for Fairness Hearing (“Motion for Preliminary Approval”) (ECF No. 452-2).

Following the Court's Preliminary Approval Order, on March 4, 2014, the Court-appointed settlement administrator Rust Consulting, Inc. ("Rust") mailed to all members of the Class a notice of the proposed Settlement describing the precise terms of the Settlement, including Class Counsel's<sup>3</sup> intent to seek an award of attorneys' fees and reimbursement of expenses ("Class Notice"), and directed Class members to the website of Faruqi & Faruqi LLP, (www.faruqilaw.com), one of Co-Lead Counsel, for copies of filings related to the Settlement.<sup>4</sup> In addition, as ordered, on March 19, 2014, 15 days before the April 3, 2014 deadline for Class members to request exclusion from the Class or object to the Settlement, Plaintiffs filed the Motion for An Award of Attorneys' Fees, Reimbursement of Expenses, and Payment of Incentive Awards to the Class Representatives and supporting brief, declaration, and exhibits ("Motion for Fees and Expenses") (ECF No. 562).<sup>5</sup> These filings were also placed on the Settlement website.

The postmark deadline for Class members' objections to the Settlement was 30 days from the date of the Class Notice, April 3, 2014. That date has passed and no Class member has

Excluded from the Class are Defendants, their parents, employees, subsidiaries and affiliates, and federal government entities (the 'Class')."

Order, February 18, 2014, ECF No. 484 ("Preliminary Approval Order").

<sup>3</sup> Class Counsel refers to Co-Lead Counsel for the Class ("Co-Lead Counsel") that the Court appointed in its Preliminary Approval Order and other Plaintiffs' counsel that assisted Co-Lead Counsel in the prosecution of this action.

<sup>4</sup> The Class Notice mailed to Class members is attached as Exhibit 1 to the Declaration of Dan Coggeshall of Rust Consulting, Inc. Regarding Notice of Pendency of Class Action and Settlement, dated April 24, 2014 ("Coggeshall Decl."). The Coggeshall Decl. is attached as Exhibit A to Declaration of Co-Lead Counsel Peter Kohn In Support of Direct Purchaser Plaintiffs' Unopposed Motion for Final Approval of Settlement ("Co-Lead Decl."). The Co-Lead Decl. is attached as Exhibit 1 to the motion in whose support this memorandum is filed.

<sup>5</sup> On March 26, 2014 the Court denied without prejudice the Motion for Fees and Expenses and instructed Plaintiffs to resubmit it before the final fairness hearing. Order, Mar. 26, 2014, ECF No. 566. Accordingly, today, Plaintiffs refile their Motion for Fees and Expenses.

objected or excluded itself from the Class. See Co-Lead Decl. ¶ 20; Coggeshall Decl. ¶ 4.<sup>6</sup> The favorable reaction of the Class confirms that the Settlement is fair, reasonable, and adequate.

II. BACKGROUND

This is an antitrust class action brought on behalf of direct purchasers of the prescription drug Doryx.

A. Plaintiffs' Claims and Procedural Background.<sup>7</sup>

Plaintiffs alleged that Defendants repeatedly reformulated and switched to different versions of Doryx and undertook other efforts to impair the process by which AB-rated generic pharmaceutical drugs are automatically substituted for their brand name counterparts. Plaintiffs thus alleged that Defendants: (a) unlawfully maintained monopoly power in the market for delayed-release doxycycline hyclate in the United States; (b) maintained the price of Doryx at supra-competitive levels; and (c) overcharged Plaintiffs and members of the Class millions of dollars by depriving them of the benefits of unimpaired competition and access to less expensive generic Doryx. This litigation was factually and legally complex, involving voluminous discovery of Defendants and multiple third parties, and requiring analysis of the science behind the Doryx reformulations and generic ANDAs, pharmacoeconomics, pharmaceuticals, pharmaceutical innovation, FDA regulations and drug manufacturing, dermatology, gastroenterology, and the complex economics issues surrounding antitrust injury and damages.

<sup>6</sup> Some customers of Class members requested exclusion from the Class based upon assignments they previously received from Class members. Customers of some of the Class members ("Assignees") thus requested exclusions on behalf of themselves and the Class member/Assignor with respect to Doryx sold from the Class member/Assignor to the Customer/Assignee. Each of these entities had already been pursuing their own individual actions against Defendants pursuant to these assignments. See Coggeshall Decl. ¶ 5. This was anticipated by the parties, and does not disrupt the Settlement.

<sup>7</sup> The Court is familiar with the progress of this action from its supervision of the case and review of the parties' monthly status reports. In addition, a detailed description of Plaintiffs' efforts to advance the case is described in Plaintiffs' Motion for Fees and Expenses at 3-6 (refiled contemporaneously herewith).

Defendants raised numerous defenses to Plaintiffs' claims, including that each Doryx reformulation benefitted patients and did not impair generic competition, and that the statute of limitations had expired before Plaintiffs filed their claims. The Court also expressed skepticism that Plaintiffs' "'product hopping' claim constitutes anticompetitive conduct," characterizing Plaintiffs' theory as "novel" and Defendants' arguments as "compelling," and invited Defendants to renew the arguments made on their motion to dismiss at summary judgment.<sup>8</sup>

Discovery was extensive, including the production of millions of documents by Plaintiffs, Defendants, and Mylan Pharmaceuticals, Inc. ("Mylan"). There was also substantial third-party discovery involving nearly 100 subpoenas to brand and generic manufacturers of acne medications, health insurance payors, marketing firms for Warner Chilcott, pharmacy benefit managers, research companies, and vendors that assisted Mylan with its generic products. By the time the parties settled, over 75 depositions had been taken, including depositions of Defendants' and Mylan's personnel involved in the development, sale and marketing of Doryx or generic Doryx, as well as third parties, the Class Representatives, Retailer and End Payor Plaintiffs, and experts in dermatology, drug manufacturing and supply, and antitrust injury and damages.

B. Settlement Negotiations and the Proposed Settlement.

In October 2013, following unproductive early discussions, and after fact discovery closed and the exchange of opening and responsive expert reports, the parties agreed to a private mediation with nationally-recognized mediator Jonathan B. Marks (the "Mediator"). The mediation and settlement discussions that followed were conducted at arm's length and were highly substantive, informed by: (a) the substantial discovery; (b) the legal, factual, and expert analyses compiled in prosecuting the case; and (c) Class Counsel's and defense counsel's substantial experience litigating pharmaceutical antitrust cases. After the parties submitted materials to the Mediator, they participated in a day-long face-to-face mediation. On November 8, 2013, the Mediator recommended a settlement payment by Defendants of $15 million in cash in exchange for releases and dismissal of claims by the Direct Purchasers. After a period of conferring with clients, the parties accepted the Mediator's recommendation and negotiated the Settlement Agreement.

The parties executed the Settlement Agreement on December 24, 2013. As part of the Settlement, Class Counsel drafted a notice to be mailed to all Class members to inform them of the Settlement, and an Escrow Agreement to govern the handling of Settlement funds (ECF Nos. 452-2, 452-8). On February 18, 2014, following Plaintiffs' Motion for Preliminary Approval (ECF No. 452), the Court entered an order preliminarily certifying a class of direct purchasers of Doryx and approving the proposed Settlement. (ECF No. 484). In the Preliminary Approval Order, the Court adopted Plaintiffs' proposed form and manner of notice to the Class and directed notice to be mailed to all Class members.

C. Notification to and Reaction of the Class to the Settlement.

The Class was notified of the Settlement through first class mail using addresses obtained from Warner Chilcott's sales database and cross-referenced with addresses that Rust had on file based on settlement notices it had disseminated to Class members in previous pharmaceutical antitrust cases. See Coggeshall Decl. ¶ 2. As directed by the Court's Preliminary Approval Order, on March 4, 2014 (i.e., 15 days from the Court's Preliminary Approval Order), Rust mailed the notice to all members of the Class by first class mail. See Preliminary Approval Order at 7; Co-Lead Decl. ¶ 17; Coggeshall Decl. ¶ 3. The Class Notice informed the Class of the Settlement and Class Counsel's request for attorneys' fees and reimbursement of expenses and described all aspects of the proposed Settlement. Documents related to the Settlement, including Plaintiffs' complete filing related to the Motion for Preliminary Approval, Motion for Fees & Expenses, Class Notice, Settlement Agreement, and the Preliminary Approval Order, were also posted on Co-Lead Counsel Faruqi & Faruqi's website as stated in the Class Notice. Co-Lead Decl. ¶¶ 17-19.

To date, the response from the Class has been uniformly positive. Objections were required to have been postmarked no later than April 3, 2014. Coggeshall Decl. ¶4. To date, no objections have been received. Co-Lead Decl. ¶ 20; Coggeshall Decl. ¶ 4. Other than from the Retailer Plaintiffs, who had already been proceeding with individual complaints by assignments from members of the Class and whose exclusion requests were anticipated in the Settlement, no requests for exclusions were received. Co-Lead Decl. ¶ 20; Coggeshall Decl. ¶¶ 4-5.

III. ARGUMENT

A. Certification of the Proposed Class is Appropriate.

Although the Court has preliminarily certified the Class,<sup>9</sup> before determining whether to grant final approval to the Settlement, the Court must finally certify the Class.<sup>10</sup> For the reasons set forth in the Preliminary Approval Order and Plaintiffs' submissions related to class certification and Motion for Preliminary Approval (ECF Nos. 153, 384 & 452-1), which are incorporated by reference, Plaintiffs continue to satisfy the requirements of Rule 23(a) and 23(b)(3).

B. Adequate Notice was Provided to the Class Consistent with the Court’s Preliminarily Approval Order.

Similarly, “[a] court must determine that notice was appropriate before evaluating the merits of the settlement.”<sup>11</sup> The due process requirements of the Fifth Amendment and Fed. R. Civ. P. 23 require that adequate notice of a proposed settlement be given to class members.<sup>12</sup> The Fifth Amendment’s due process requirements are satisfied by the “combination of reasonable notice, the opportunity to be heard and the opportunity to withdraw from the class.”<sup>13</sup> Rule 23(e) notice is “designed to summarize the litigation and the settlement and to apprise class members of the right and opportunity to inspect the complete settlement documents, papers, and pleadings filed in the litigation.”<sup>14</sup>

Notice of the Settlement was provided by first-class mail to each Class member on March 4, 2014 and the Class Notice (along with other information) was made (and remains) available on the Faruqi & Faruqi website, all consistent with the Court’s February 18, 2014 Preliminary Approval Order. Co-Lead Decl. ¶¶ 17-19. This method of notice is sufficient to satisfy Rule 23 requirements and due process concerns.<sup>15</sup>

As more fully explained in Plaintiffs’ Motion for Preliminary Approval, the content of the Class Notice is also sufficiently clear, detailed, and instructive to satisfy due process.<sup>16</sup> The Class Notice is in plain language and informs Class members of the claims asserted in this case,

2. Standards for Court approval of a settlement.

A class action settlement warrants final approval if it is “fair, reasonable, and adequate.”<sup>20</sup> The Third Circuit has held that an initial presumption of fairness applies when a district court finds that the factors have been met to support a settlement's preliminary approval.<sup>21</sup> The Court has made such a determination here, having preliminarily approved the Settlement.<sup>22</sup>

To further guide courts in assessing whether a settlement warrants final approval, the Third Circuit has identified nine factors (often called the Girsh factors) to consider:

- (1) the complexity, expense and likely duration of the litigation;
- (2) the reaction of the class to the settlement;
- (3) the stage of the proceedings and the amount of discovery completed;
- (4) the risks of establishing liability;
- (5) the risks of establishing damages;
- (6) the risks of maintaining the class action through the trial;
- (7) the ability of the defendants to withstand a greater judgment;
- (8) the range of reasonableness of the settlement fund in light of the best possible recovery; and
- (9) the range of reasonableness of the settlement fund to a possible recovery in light of all the attendant risks of litigation.<sup>23</sup>

No one factor is dispositive.<sup>24</sup>

The Third Circuit has more recently held that district courts should consider an additional set of factors, known as the Prudential factors:

- (1) the maturity of the underlying substantive issues, as measured by experience in adjudicating individual actions, the development of scientific knowledge, the extent of discovery on the merits, and other factors that bear on the ability to assess the probable outcome of a trial on the merits of liability and individual damages;
- (2) the existence and probable outcome of claims by other classes and subclasses;
- (3) the comparison between the results achieved by the settlement for individual class or subclass members and the results achieved – or likely to be achieved – for other claimants;

- (4) whether class or subclass members are accorded the right to opt-out of the settlement;
- (5) whether any provisions for attorneys' fees are reasonable; and
- (6) whether the procedure for processing individual claims under the settlement is fair and reasonable.<sup>25</sup>

Only the Prudential factors relevant to the litigation in question need be addressed.<sup>26</sup>

District courts must make findings on each of the Girsh factors and, where appropriate, consider but not necessarily make findings on the Prudential factors.<sup>27</sup> The Court can determine that a settlement is fair, reasonable, and adequate without finding that each Girsh factor favors settlement.<sup>28</sup> The Court may not simply substitute assurances from or conclusions by the parties for independent analysis of the settlement.<sup>29</sup> However, the court can give “considerable weight to the views of experienced counsel as to the merits of a settlement” because “a settlement represents the result of a process by which opposing parties attempt to weigh and balance the factual and legal issues that neither side chooses to risk taking to final resolution.”<sup>30</sup>

<sup>26</sup> Prudential, 148 F.3d at 323-24. At least one court has suggested that where the Girsh factors clearly establish the fairness, reasonableness, and adequacy of a settlement, consideration of additional factors is not necessary. Pichler v. UNITE, 775 F. Supp. 2d 754, 758 (E.D. Pa. 2011). However, Plaintiffs here also address the relevant Prudential factors.

<sup>27</sup> See, e.g., In re Processed Egg Prods. Antitrust Litig., 284 F.R.D. 249, 268 (E.D. Pa. 2012) (“Processed Eggs”) (“While the court must make findings as to the Girsh factors to approve a settlement as fair reasonable, and adequate, the Prudential factors are illustrative of additional factors that may be useful even though they are not essential or inexorable depending upon the specific circumstance.”).

<sup>28</sup> See, e.g. Processed Eggs, 284 F.R.D. at 277 (“However, all of the factors considered in determining the fairness of a settlement ‘are a guide; an unfavorable conclusion regarding one or more factors does not automatically render the settlement unfair.’”) (quoting 2 Joseph M. McLaughlin, McLaughlin on Class Actions: Law and Practice § 6:8 (6th ed. 2010)); Ripley v. Sunoco, Inc., 287 F.R.D. 300, 317 (E.D. <sup>29</sup> Pet Food, 629 F.3d at 350.

In cases such as this where class certification and settlement approval are sought simultaneously, the Court should apply “an even more rigorous, heightened standard.”<sup>31</sup> “This heightened standard is designed to ensure that class counsel has demonstrated ‘sustained advocacy’ throughout the course of the proceedings and has protected the interests of all class members.”<sup>32</sup> “The professional judgment of counsel involved in the litigation” is, however, “entitled to significant weight.”<sup>33</sup> Counsel should not be held to “an impossible standard, as a settlement is virtually always a compromise, a yielding of the highest hopes in exchange for certainty and resolution.”<sup>34</sup>

The Settlement meets each of the factors for final approval.

3. Evaluation of the settlement under the Girsh factors.

a. The complexity, expense, and likely duration of the litigation.

This action involved complex legal issues concerning antitrust law, pharmaceutical product regulation, and class action procedure, as well as complex scientific and medical issues concerning pharmaceutical manufacturing and composition, dermatology, and gastroenterology, that were investigated and litigated intensely for nearly two years. “[A]ntitrust class actions are perhaps the most complex cases to litigate.”<sup>35</sup> This is particularly so in a “product hopping” case such as this one where the case law is not well-developed and dependent upon a fact intensive inquiry.<sup>36</sup> Class Counsel's efforts thus far are commensurate with and illustrative of the complexity and expense of this litigation. Among other things, Class Counsel:

- Investigated the Class's claims of antitrust violation and injury (and did so months before the Mylan complaint was filed);
- Conducted extensive research and analysis concerning antitrust liability for product hopping, conspiracy, statute of limitations, relevant market, and the Noerr-Pennington doctrine as it relates to filings with the FDA;
- Opposed Defendants' motion to dismiss which included briefing and exhibits totaling hundreds of pages;
- Filed and briefed class certification, including taking and defending four expert depositions and replying to Defendants' response in opposition to class certification that included three separate expert reports and 117 exhibits;
- Prepared for and defended the depositions of Class Representatives;
- Assisted Class Representatives and absent class members with discovery, including opposing Defendants' motion to compel absent class member discovery,<sup>37</sup> and providing the Court with additional class member data;<sup>38</sup>
- Litigated other discovery motions and negotiated stipulations concerning Defendants' extensive document and data demands;
- Pursued discovery from and conducted substantial negotiations with 32 subpoenaed third parties;
- Reviewed and analyzed millions of pages of documents and data produced by Defendants and third parties;
- Conducted or appeared at dozens of depositions of current and former employees of Defendants, other plaintiffs, and third parties;

- Oversaw the preparation of 10 expert reports,<sup>39</sup>
- Conducted depositions of five of Defendants' experts,<sup>40</sup>
- Submitted a mediation statement and participated in mediation that yielded a $15 million settlement for the Class; and
- Developed and drafted the Settlement and Class Notice documents and will assist in overseeing the notice and claims process to ensure swift and accurate distribution of Settlement proceeds to the Class.

While fact discovery was complete when the parties agreed to the Settlement, much work still remained to try the Class's claims against Defendants including completing expert discovery, submitting rebuttal expert reports, briefing and arguing summary judgment, and finally conducting a trial. This Settlement saves the substantial additional expense of a multi-week trial likely involving complex scientific and regulatory testimony from experts and fact witnesses as well as hundreds of trial exhibits – and the expense associated with a lengthy appeal that would likely follow a jury verdict.<sup>41</sup> After receiving the Class Notice, no Class member has objected to the Settlement, and there will be no appeal of a final approval of the Settlement. This factor overwhelmingly supports approval.

b. The reaction of the class to the settlement.

Each member of the Class received actual notice, via first-class mail, of the Settlement, and there has not been a single objection. “‘Courts have generally assumed that silence constitutes tacit consent to the agreement.’”<sup>42</sup> The members of the Class in this case are largely sophisticated businesses that have received notices of settlement in previous pharmaceutical antitrust class actions.<sup>43</sup> Some members of the Class even have separate counsel who entered their appearances or made filings and submissions in this case.<sup>44</sup> That there have been no objections from sophisticated class members who are familiar with settlements in pharmaceutical antitrust cases is “particularly telling” and overwhelmingly supports approval.<sup>45</sup>

c. The stage of the proceedings and the amount of discovery completed.

Courts consider the procedural stage of a case at the time of settlement in assessing whether counsel adequately appreciated the merits of the case before negotiating that settlement.<sup>46</sup> “[C]ourts generally recognize that a proposed class action settlement is presumptively valid where . . . the parties engaged in arm’s length negotiations after meaningful discovery.”<sup>47</sup> Settlements reached after discovery “are more likely to reflect the true value of the claim . . . .”<sup>48</sup>

This case is well-advanced. By the time the parties completed settlement negotiations in December 2013, fact discovery had concluded; over 75 depositions had been taken including of Defendants’ personnel responsible for the development, sale, and marketing of Doryx and some of Defendants’ experts in dermatology, pharmaceutical manufacturing and supply, pharmaceutical economics, and drug delivery, and over six million pages of documents had been produced by Defendants and third parties. In addition, the Court had denied Defendants’ motion to dismiss, class certification was fully briefed, and the parties had exchanged opening and responsive merits expert reports. That record allowed Class Counsel and Defendants to engage in a productive full-day mediation session and subsequent settlement discussions resulting in a settlement just a few months before summary judgment briefing was to begin.<sup>49</sup> This factor, too, overwhelmingly supports final approval of the Settlement.

d. The risks of establishing liability.

This factor weighs the likelihood of ultimate success against the benefits of an immediate settlement. The existence of obstacles to a plaintiff’s success at trial weighs in favor of settlement.<sup>50</sup> “In examining this factor, the court may ‘give credence to the estimation of the probability of success proffered by class counsel, who are experienced with the underlying case, and the possible defenses which may be raised to their causes of action.”<sup>51</sup>

This case challenged an alleged anticompetitive scheme, known as “product hopping,” which, while effective in blocking generic competition, has undergone relatively little prior judicial review. Defendants had asserted substantial factual and legal defenses, including that: (1) the Doryx reformulations did not cause any anticompetitive harm, and even if they did, harm was outweighed by procompetitive benefits including, inter alia, reduced incidence of esophageal erosion, improved patient compliance, flexibility in titration of dosing, reduced co-pays and improved shelf-life; (2) Mylan and other generic manufacturers’ own conduct, not Defendants’ conduct, impaired generic competition for Doryx; (3) Plaintiffs’ claims were barred by the statute of limitations because Plaintiffs’ main theory of liability involved the capsule-to-tablet switch that occurred more than four years before Plaintiffs had filed their claims; and (4) Defendants did not have market power in the relevant product market because of the availability of numerous anti-acne medications to treat the same or similar conditions as Doryx. In its ruling on the motions to dismiss, the Court characterized Defendants’ defenses as “compelling,” expressed skepticism that the “‘product hopping’ scheme alleged here constitutes anticompetitive conduct,” and invited Defendants to renew their arguments at summary judgment.<sup>52</sup>

While Plaintiffs were confident in their factual and legal position with respect to each of these issues, the risk remained that the Court or the jury would disagree with Plaintiffs on one or more of these issues. And even if Plaintiffs prevailed at trial, they would have faced the challenge of sustaining every favorable outcome on appeal. The paucity of clear precedent in

e. The risks of maintaining the class action through trial.

The Court previously assured itself that the requirements of Rule 23 were met and certified this case as a class action for purposes of preliminary approval.<sup>54</sup> Numerous courts, including the Third Circuit, have certified nearly identical classes of direct purchasers bringing antitrust claims against manufacturers allegedly seeking to delay generic competition in the pharmaceutical industry.<sup>55</sup> Nonetheless, “the Third Circuit Court of Appeals has recognized that there will always be a risk of possibility of decertification, and consequently the court can always claim this factor weighs in favor of settlement.”<sup>56</sup> While the risk of decertification is extremely slight, this factor can be considered neutral in this case.<sup>57</sup>

f. The ability of defendant to withstand a greater judgment.

The ability of a defendant to withstand a greater judgment is most relevant in cases where the amount of the settlement is less than might ordinarily be agreed upon by the plaintiff, but greater than defendant's financial circumstances might be able to accommodate.<sup>58</sup> These circumstances do not exist here.

Of course, courts have recognized that a defendant's ability to pay more must be balanced against other considerations of whether the settlement is fair in light of the legal issues and circumstances involved in the case.<sup>59</sup> Courts have granted final approval to settlements even when this factor is neutral or disfavors settlement.<sup>60</sup> This case involved difficult legal issues, deployed theories the Court considered "novel," presented significant risks that Plaintiffs would either not prevail, and was hard-fought. The amount that Plaintiffs obtained in the Settlement is a positive benefit to class members on its face, and an even better result when these considerations are taken into account. The theoretical ability of Defendants to pay more is a neutral factor in this context.

parties would face if the case went to trial.”<sup>61</sup> In conducting this analysis, courts consider “the opinions of experienced attorneys in deciding the fairness of a settlement compared to the likely recovery at trial.”<sup>62</sup> In addition, Courts find this factor met when both parties have demonstrated a willingness to litigate the action and engaged in mediation.<sup>63</sup>

Assessment of a settlement, however, need not be tied to an exact formula.<sup>64</sup> A settlement may still be within a reasonable range, even though it represents only a portion of the potential recovery.<sup>65</sup> In addition, courts have approved settlements where the plaintiffs have not set forth an exact estimation of damages.<sup>66</sup>

Here, the Settlement falls within the range of settlements that are worthy of final approval as fair, reasonable, and adequate. The proposed Settlement totaling $15 million cash is reasonable both in absolute terms and in light of the circumstances of this litigation, particularly the risks of establishing liability before or at trial. In another antitrust case recently settled on behalf of nearly the same class of direct purchasers alleging similar conduct, the district court noted that the $20.25 million settlement represented “a substantial sum,” and, weighing the risks of establishing liability and damages “against the guarantee of this large a sum for a class” found the proposed settlement was adequate and reasonable.<sup>67</sup> Another court in this district found that a $17.25 million dollar settlement involving most of the same class members here conferred “an immediate benefit on the Class . . . which benefit is substantial in light of the risks of establishing liability and damages in this case[.]”<sup>68</sup> Further, estimates of damages here ranged from $23 million to $1 billion depending on the timing and number of generic entrants, sales volume, and pricing assumptions. When these damages estimates are discounted by the risks of continued litigation, “[t]he value of the [S]ettlement to each class member represents a reasonable discount from the best possible judgment if they were to prevail after trial.”<sup>69</sup> Furthermore, $15 million is the amount recommended by the Mediator after receiving submissions and hearing presentations by both parties. Accordingly, the Settlement is reasonable when considered in light of the possible range of recovery and recent antitrust pharmaceutical settlements involving most of the same class members. This factor also overwhelmingly supports final approval.

4. Evaluation of the settlement under the relevant Prudential factors.

a. Factors that bear on the maturity of the underlying substantive issues.

This case was settled after fact discovery, complete briefing on class certification, the denial of motions to dismiss, completed fact discovery, the submission of opening and responsive merits expert reports, a full day of mediation guided by an experienced mediator, and hard-fought settlement negotiations. That the underlying substantive issues were well-developed further supports approval of this Settlement.<sup>70</sup>

b. Results achieved by settlement for individual class members versus the results achieved – or likely to be achieved – for other claimants.

This factor also supports approval of the Settlement. There are no Class members who have filed a separate lawsuit against Defendants.<sup>71</sup> The Settlement, therefore, obtains the best, and only, result for the Class.

c. Whether class or subclass members are accorded the right to opt-out of the settlement.

The Class Notice that each member of the Class received explained how to opt-out of the Class and provided the deadline for doing so.<sup>72</sup> No Class member requested exclusion from the Class by the April 3, 2014 deadline (or thereafter, as of the date of this motion). Thus, this factor also supports final approval.<sup>73</sup>

d. Whether any provisions for attorneys' fees are reasonable.

Plaintiffs' application for an award of attorney fees and reimbursement of expenses is reasonable.<sup>74</sup>

First, from the beginning, Class Counsel pursued this action vigorously, committing their services and resources, applying their highly specialized expertise in the field of pharmaceutical antitrust litigation, and advancing substantial funds to prosecute the case. To date, these attorneys have neither been paid for their efforts nor reimbursed for their out-of-pocket expenses. Instead, their compensation has been contingent upon obtaining a recovery on behalf of the Class.

Second, in more than a dozen analogous direct purchaser class actions involving similar allegations of impaired generic competition brought on behalf of virtually identical classes of sophisticated institutional drug purchasers, courts have awarded class counsel fees of one third of the Settlement. (See Table of prior cases set forth in Motion for Fees and Expenses at 15).

Third, an attorneys' fee equaling one-third of the settlement amount is particularly appropriate here where the multiplier on class counsel's lodestar amount falls well below the range traditionally approved by courts because the requested fee is less than lodestar, i.e., there is a negative multiplier of 44 percent.

Fourth, prior to the deadline for Class members to object to the Settlement, Class members were notified expressly that "Plaintiffs' Counsel will apply to the Court for an award of attorneys' fees (of up to one-third of the Settlement Fund) and expenses,"<sup>75</sup> and have been directed to the Settlement website, where Plaintiffs' fee submission is posted, and no Class member has objected.

e. Whether the procedure for processing individual claims under the settlement is fair and reasonable.<sup>76</sup>

This factor is discussed more in Section D below. The proposed plan of distribution, submitted with Plaintiffs' Preliminary Approval Motion dated January 10, 2014 (ECF No. 452-3, at Ex. B) (the "Plan"), proposes to allocate the Net Settlement Fund to Class members based on the type and extent of their injuries and is similar to plans that have previously been approved by courts in analogous cases and implemented with a high degree of success and efficiency. If the Court grants final approval of the Settlement, the proposed Doryx Direct Purchaser Proof of Claim and Release attached as Exhibit D to the Motion for Preliminary Approval (“Claim Form”)<sup>77</sup> will be mailed to the Class as well as placed on the Settlement website. The Claim Form implements the procedures of the Plan.

As explained in more detail below, the Court has authorized Rust, which is experienced in administering class action settlements, to receive and process Class members’ claims, with the supervision of Class Counsel. Class members will be provided with information reflecting their qualifying purchases, as reflected in Warner Chilcott’s sales records, and will be advised of their proposed pro rata share. Class members will then be given an opportunity to evaluate the information and proposed pro rata share based on their own data. A deadline for Class member claim submissions will be set, and after all timely inquiries have been addressed and adjustments made, if any, payments will be distributed to Class members from the Net Settlement Fund.<sup>78</sup> The distributions will be made on a pro rata basis, according to class members’ purchases of Doryx during the class period. This proposed plan of distribution does not grant preferential treatment to any Class member and is thus fair and reasonable. In further support of this point, Plaintiffs incorporate the discussions of the Class Notice discussed above and plan of distribution and Claim Form discussed below.

Accordingly, under both the Girsh and Prudential factors, the Settlement is fair, reasonable, and adequate.

<sup>78</sup> The “Net Settlement Fund” is the amount remaining after attorneys’ fees, reimbursement of litigation expenses, class representative incentive awards, and settlement administration costs approved by the Court are deducted. Class Notice, Coggeshall Dec., Ex. 1, § 7.

D. The Court Should Approve the Plan of Distribution and Proposed Claim Form.

“Approval of a plan of allocation of a settlement fund in a class action is governed by the same standards of review applicable to approval of the settlement as a whole: the distribution plan must be fair, reasonable and adequate.”<sup>79</sup> Generally, a distribution plan is reasonable if it reimburses class members based on the type and extent of their injuries.<sup>80</sup> The proposed Plan of Distribution submitted with the Plaintiffs’ Motion for Preliminary Approval (“Plan”), meets this standard.<sup>81</sup> It is similar to plans that have previously been approved by courts in analogous cases and implemented with a high degree of success and efficiency.

The proposed Claim Form is attached as Exhibit D to Plaintiffs’ Motion for Preliminary Approval.<sup>82</sup> The Claim Form implements the Plan. If the Court gives final approval to the Settlement, Rust will mail a copy of the Claim Form to each Class member by first class United States mail. Part 2A of the Claim Form will include Rust’s estimate of the Class members’ purchases of Doryx during the Class Period, based on data produced by Defendants in the litigation and provided to Rust by Class Counsel. Part 2A of the Claim Form will also include Rust’s estimate of the Class member’s pro rata share of the net settlement fund. The estimate of each class member’s purchases, as well as their pro rata share of the Net Settlement Fund, will be calculated by Rust in conjunction with Plaintiffs’ economic expert. Co-Lead Decl. ¶ 23.

If the Class member agrees with Rust’s calculation of their purchases of Doryx and their pro rata share of the Net Settlement Fund, the Class member need only accept the calculation, sign the Claim Form to verify their acceptance of the terms of the release of claims, and return it to Rust.

If the Class member disagrees with Rust's calculations, Part 2C of the Claim Form provides instructions for providing Rust with data concerning the Class members' Doryx purchases during the Class Period. Rust, in conjunction with Plaintiffs' economic experts, will review any data provided and, if warranted, make adjustments to each Class member's pro rata share of the Net Settlement Fund. Id. ¶ 25.

Plaintiffs propose to pay the Net Settlement Fund to members of the Class who submit claims pro rata based on each Class member's aggregate share of the total Class purchases of Doryx during the Class Period. As the Plan sets forth, Plaintiffs propose the following schedule to govern the allocation process:

- 15 days after entry of order finally approving the Settlement: mail the Claim Form to all Class members;<sup>83</sup>
- 45 days after entry of order finally approving the Settlement: deadline for claimants to submit executed Claim Forms to Rust; and<sup>84</sup>
- 90 days after entry of order finally approving the Settlement: Co-Lead Counsel shall submit to the Court a motion for distribution of the Net Settlement Fund, supported by a declaration by Rust.

Rust sent the Class Notice to the Class advising them that the Net Settlement Fund will be divided among class members on a pro rata basis and the method of allocation proposed. Again, in response to the Class Notice, no Class member has objected.

Plaintiffs respectfully submit that the Plan and Claim Form are fair, reasonable, and adequate and should be approved. This proposal has the benefit of accuracy, efficiency, and simplicity. Similar proposals and claim forms have been approved for use in administration of a number of settlements in cases involving pharmaceutical antitrust claims that the undersigned Co-Lead Counsel has prosecuted.

E. The Notice Requirements of the Class Action Fairness Act Have Been Satisfied.

The Class Action Fairness Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1715 et seq. (“CAFA”), requires Defendants to notify appropriate state and federal officials of the proposed Settlement and to allow 90 days to pass before final approval of the proposed Settlement may be entered.<sup>85</sup> Defendants notified the United States Department of Justice and the attorneys general of the 50 states and the District of Columbia of the proposed settlement on January 21, 2014. Co-Lead Decl. ¶ 21, Exhibit B. More than 90 days has passed since the CAFA notice date.

IV. CONCLUSION

For the reasons detailed above, and in other supporting documents, Plaintiffs, on behalf of the Class, and Class Counsel, respectfully request that the Court enter the proposed order and final judgment (attached as Exhibit 2 hereto), which, inter alia, grants final approval to the Settlement pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e) and approves the above-described Plan and Claim Form.
